

“America’s First Choice” for providing rapid global mobility!

Nestled among the Northern California communities of Fairfield, Suisun City and Vacaville, Travis AFB is less than an hour from San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento, and California’s Wine Country. The base is also within easy driving distance of Lake Tahoe, Yosemite National Park, Monterey and many other popular tourist destinations.

Situated in the center of a 70-mile circle that includes 8 million people living in the vicinity of San Francisco, Oakland, San Jose and Sacramento, you would be hard pressed to find a more exciting stateside location at which to be stationed.

The base’s host unit, the 60th Air Mobility Wing, is the largest wing in the Air Force’s Air Mobility Command, with a versatile fleet of 37 C-5 Galaxies and 27 KC-10 Extenders.

Headquarters 15th Air Force; the 349th Air Mobility Wing of Air Force Reserve Command; the Army’s 3rd Brigade, 91st Division; the Navy’s VQ3 Detachment, and dozens of other tenant organizations also call Travis home.

As the “Gateway to the Pacific,” Travis’ primary contribution to the Department of Defense is the strategic airlift and aerial refueling capabilities that give American military personnel, aircraft and cargo true Global Reach.
